

We need you...

To join our Public Advisory Committee

Millar Western is seeking to fill several volunteer positions on its Public Advisory Committee. With members representing the region's communities, organizations and general public, PAC meets about 5 times a year to:

- review our forestry plans
- monitor our mills' environmental performance
- help ensure our compliance with certification programs
- discuss issues of interest to the community and industry

This is your opportunity to learn more about the forest sector, which has long been an integral part of the community. You don't need forestry expertise to join – just a desire to play a productive role in guiding the responsible management of renewable resources and manufacture of forest products.

If you are interested in becoming a PAC member, then please send your contact information and a brief bio or resume to:
